BRITISH AIR PLANS WILL BE KEPT SECRET

German Air-Borne Troops Take Canea, Suda Bay, In Crete

(By The Associated Press.)
CAIRO, Egypt, May 29.—German air-borne troops in Crete, heavily reinforced, have pushed the defenders back from Canea, occupying the island's wrecked capital as well as Suda Bay and most of the shore around it, it was conceded by the British middle east command.
The British empire forces, mostly New Zealanders, had been pushed to points east of Suda Bay.
Desperate hand-to-hand fighting is continuing with heavy casualties on both sides, it was said.
(The Germans announced their forces had captured Suda Bay, driven to Almyro Bay, on which Retimo is situated, to the east and had occupied Candia, some 55 miles still farther east from Suda Bay.)
The Middle East command said the Germans were continuing dive-bombing attacks on an extensive scale.

BOMBS TEAR UP CRETE ISLAND

Area Pulverized By Nazi Fire; British Lack Air Power

By DeWitt MacKENZIE
The position of the Anglo-Greek Allies in the Battle of Crete was so grave today that even as this is being written they may have been compelled to give up the fight to retain control of that strategic island.
During the ten days of one of the fiercest battles of history the Nazi dive-bombers have all but blasted Crete out of the water. Late Greek reports record that the cities of the island literally are pulverized by the deluge of high explosives.
Lack of air-power in the eastern Mediterranean is the millstone about the Allied neck. It will so continue to be until this deficiency is supplied from America.
Some London observers believe that if the Hiltierites win the Battle of Crete they will turn their attention next to the big British naval base on the island of Cyprus. This lies four hundred miles to the east of Crete and off the coast of Syria.
That might indeed be an early objective, but possession of Crete would give the Nazis a fairly wide choice of moves. In any event, they must take time out for consolidation of the bomb-torn island before it will be of much value as a base for further major operations.
It is quite possible that the Germans will by-pass Cyprus for the movement and try to establish themselves in Syria. This would provide a necessary base for a drive through Palestine to Egypt and the Suez canal, aid it would give them a handy airfield for an assault against Cyprus.
Also of vast and perhaps more immediate importance is the fact that possession of Crete would bring German bombers within 250 miles of the Libyan-Egyptian border on the north African coast where the Axis expeditionary force is maneuvering for an opening to drive into Egypt.

CAME TO U.S. FOR FREEDOM

Saxon Rally Here Recalls Struggles Over Period Of 800 Years

The celebration of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the First Transylvania Saxon Society, in connection with the 40th annual convention of Transylvania Saxon lodges of the United States, to be held here tomorrow, Memorial day, and Saturday, at a time when the world struggles for freedom, make particularly timely the story of a people whose whole history has been a struggle for freedom, Saxon leaders pointed out today.
It was this desire for freedom they said, which led a great mass of Saxons to leave the northern coast of Europe over 800 years ago, when most of Europe was yet a lawless wilderness, upon the promise of the Hungarian King, Geysa, that they could live on the land which is now the province of Transylvania and govern themselves, if they would not settle on the land and cultivate it as the knew they would.
Fight For Preservation
The changing fortunes of a turbulent Europe soon wiped out this promise. Yet through centuries of changing regimes, through constant wars, the struggle to improve the land, to preserve their Lutheran religion, language, customs, their very identity, continued.
In the 1860's this desire for freedom began to find expression in the ever growing migration of Saxons to the great West America.
Why should the very first of these immigrants pick Salem in which to settle and work? There is no answer to this. Suffice it to say that they did pick Salem, and they soon came in greater numbers.
Alone in a strange land, homeless for those they had left behind, fifteen men in 1891 banded together in a "Kranken-Verein," or sick benefit society. The first purpose of the group was just what the name implies.
Later, however, it came to be the means by which the group could assimilate the culture of the new homeland, as well as give to the new homeland as much of their own culture as their abilities allowed.
Today the society numbers 282 members. There is a ladies' auxiliary almost as large, as well as active Junior Saxon club, two singing societies, a Danceschore and Maennerchor. It is affiliated with

ICKES FEARS SHORTAGE OF POWER AND OIL

Serious Emergency Looms, Federal Commissioner Declares

DAYLIGHT SAVING PROGRAM PROPOSED

Diversion from Civilian To Industrial Uses Is Studied

WASHINGTON, May 29.—Interior Secretary Ickes today advocated daylight saving time on a nationwide scale, and suggested that America may have to resort to restricted use of electricity and institute "gasless Sundays" to meet shortages of power and oil.
The statement came as an official of the federal power commission foresaw a power emergency, "perhaps the most serious in history," and revealed studies were being made on means of diverting power from civilian to industrial uses, to prevent interruption of defense production.
Congress Could Act
Daylight saving, Ickes said, could be instituted by an act of congress, to save substantial amounts of power.
In mentioning the possibility of priorities in the use of power, the secretary said restricted consumption might easily include night baseball, and he commented: "It's more important to make aluminum than to have night baseball."
The power shortage, he said, might "be met by moral suasion," through civilians voluntarily restricting consumption.
Turning to oil, Ickes told his press conference the problem was strictly one of transportation and he foresaw a possibility of restricted use, especially on the eastern seaboard.

Advocates Pipe Lines

In this connection, he advocated oil pipe lines from the south to the east, where severe shortages of oil are feared because of the transfer of one-fifth of the American tanker fleet to British service. He advocated priorities on materials used in making pipe lines and oil tankers, to hasten their construction.
Ickes said an effort to build the pipe lines had been blocked by the Georgia legislature by the railroads "very shortsightedly."
T. R. Rife, of the federal power commission, told of the study to conserve power.

FOUR DRAW FINES IN MAYOR'S COURT

Clifford Gerren, 27, of E. Pershing st., was jailed by police on a charge of driving while intoxicated following an accident on S. Broadway at 3:25 p. m. Wednesday. The defendant was arrested by the state patrol on a similar charge in April, records show.
Patrolmen James Hassey and Nerr Gaunt reported that Gerren, driving a borrowed car, struck a parked machine on S. Broadway, owned by Joseph Bentley of E. State st. Gerren awaits a hearing.
The heaviest fine ever levied by Mayor Norman Phillips on a reckless driving complaint was meted out last night to James Rugh, 34, Cleveland motorist who was involved in a Route 45 accident two miles north of Lisbon Monday afternoon. Pleading guilty to the charge, which was filed by the patrol, Rugh was fined $100 and costs filed in default of payment.
Ruch's car, on the wrong side of the road, collided head-on with a machine operated by Orrie Dotson of R. D. 1, Lisbon. Four persons were sent to the hospital as a result of the crash. The Cleveland driver was arrested by the patrol upon his release from the Central Clinic yesterday.

America to Bow Tomorrow In Honor of Its War Dead

Memorial Day, the day set aside since 1868 by Americans to pay homage to war dead, once again comes with a world at war and America on the brink. In virtually every city and hamlet in the United States, except in the old Confederate states, special memorial services will be held for fallen heroes. Parades are the order of the day. National services will be held at the national shrine at Arlington, Va., where stands the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. In Europe, where are the graves of many Americans who fought in the World war, the conflict has spread over many lands with its suffering, increasing death toll and terrible property damage. This then is Memorial day, 1941.

NO RELIEF FOR PARCHED OHIO

Rainfall Deficiency As Much As 10.56 In Some Sections

For the second time this month, parched Ohio sweated under a heat wave of mid-summer intensity today without hope of quick relief.
Forecasters said today would be "generally fair and continued warm," with only slight hope for showers and slight hope for extended rains needed to make up rainfall deficiencies that range as high as 10.56 inches since Jan. 1 in some sections.
Thermometers hit record-breaking highs throughout the state yesterday.
In Salem Wednesday afternoon the mercury climbed to 89 degrees and dropped only to 70 at midnight. At 8:30 this morning it was 79 with the mercury rising.

SERVICE PLANNED FOR WALTER BROWN

LISBON, May 29.—Private services for Walter P. Brown, 54, who was found dead of a self-inflicted revolver wound in the right temple at his home here at 2 p. m. Wednesday, will be held at the home of his sister, Miss Bertha and Hazel Brown, 119 W. Washington st., at 2 p. m. Saturday. Rev. R. T. Campbell, pastor of the Methodist church, will be in charge. Burial will be made in the Lisbon cemetery.
The tragedy occurred during the absence of other members of the family. The body was found on the floor of an upstairs bedroom at the home, 123 W. Washington st., by a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy McDevitt, who summoned aid. Death, however, had been instantaneous from a bullet wound in the right temple. A 32-caliber revolver was found nearby. Coroner Arnold Devon, who investigated, ruled death was due to a self-inflicted gun-shot wound, and stated despondency was the contributory cause.
Mr. Brown, the oldest member of the Lisbon Volunteer Fire department, and an electrical contractor by trade, was born in Lisbon Nov. 13, 1886, a son of W. I. Brown and Cora Frost Brown. He had been a lifelong resident of Lisbon.

DON'T WASTE WATER. IS CITY'S APPEAL

Arch H. Wentz, chairman of city council's water committee, today appealed to Salem citizens to refrain from the use of lawn sprinklers or other equipment using water, at least in the immediate future, because of a tremendous drain on the water reserves.
Wentz' appeal followed a conference with Fire Chief Vincent Malloy in which the latter emphasized that the greater the drain on the reserve supply, the greater the fire hazard will be.
Water consumption is greater now than the supply being brought in by the wells. With industrial plants operating on curtailed schedules Memorial day, and Sunday, it is hoped that the situation will be remedied to some extent over the weekend.

56,000 PLANES U.S. PROGRAM

Full Strength Expected To Be Reached By Fall Of 1943

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, May 29.—A combined army-navy air force of 56,000 warplanes, informed legislators disclosed today, will be provided by the funds which President Roosevelt has asked of congress. The full strength is expected to be reached by the fall of 1943.
Members of the house military appropriations subcommittee said Robert B. Patterson, undersecretary of war, had told them that with funds in the $9,452,000,000 war department supply bill which the subcommittee approved late yesterday, the army air corps would be able to acquire a total of 46,000 planes.
The huge appropriation—largest single supply bill since world war days—was increased to the last minute to include the $2,700,000,785 requested Tuesday by President Roosevelt to give the army 13,000 additional planes. The chief executive also asked $539,046,600 for the navy which committee members said would complete the fleet's 10,000-plane program.
Plans already have been announced by the Office of Production Management for stepping up the output of heavy bombers to 500 a month in efforts to meet the need of both Britain and this country for such long-range aerial striking power. There even were indications that this rate would be accelerated further.

COUNTY FARMERS ATTEND FIELD DAY

LISBON, May 29.—A number of Columbiana county farmers will attend the Trumbull county experiment farm field day program on June 3, according to County Agent Floyd Lower.
The program will include: "Hay Making Machinery," R. D. Burden; "Making Silage," C. P. Rogers; "Roughage from Pastures and Meadows," Chas. Monroe; "Perennial Pasture," D. R. Dodd; "The Fertility Program," Earl Jones; "The Dairy Breeding Program," C. D. McGrew.
Field trips will start soon after 10 a. m. and will continue during the afternoon. Most of the program will be in the field. The essentials of the program will be repeated on June 4 for a smaller group.
The Trumbull county experiment farm is noted for its good fields of alfalfa mixtures and for its pasture. Surprising results have been obtained in reduction of feed costs through economical use of good hay and pasture in feeding the dairy herd. Many local dairymen are interested in the work being done at this farm, near Cortland.

FDR REFUSES TO DISCLOSE FUTURE MOVES

Army, Navy Technicians Are "Devising New Safeguards"

NEUTRALITY ACT WON'T BE CHANGED

Policy Does Not Infringe On Principle of Freedom of Seas

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, May 29.—President Roosevelt adopted the strategy of silence today on future methods for delivering the goods to Great Britain.
"You don't telegraph your moves anymore in the world of today," one service official explained, referring to the President's statement that army and navy technicians were devising new safeguards.
However, Chairman Reynolds (D-NC) of the senate military committee looked for "full convoys of some description." He said that was his interpretation of the President's fireside chat pledge to see that needed supplies reached England safely.
On the other hand, no less a personage than Vice President Wallace was reported to be disappointed that his chief had not been more specific as to how delivery would be assured.
Mr. Roosevelt did nothing to quell conjecture at a special press conference. He disclaimed any intention of seeking change or repeal of the Neutrality Act, contending that it in no way infringed on the principle of the freedom of the seas, which he formally reasserted for the United States Tuesday night.
By ruling out action on the neutrality law, the President eliminated the possibility of American merchant ships being used to carry cargoes through the present combat zones. However, this caused one official to recall Mr. Roosevelt's specific assertions in the past that the combat zone quarantine did not apply to the nation's naval vessels, which were free to go wherever their missions took them.
President Roosevelt also told reporters yesterday that he contemplated no executive orders at present to invoke any of the numerous broad powers conferred on him by the proclamation of an unlimited national emergency. This tended to confirm authoritative reports that the President's purpose was to keep the door open to turn to SECRECY, Page 5

WE DECLARE AN UNDECLARED WAR

Authority to declare war resides in congress. Power to make congress declare war—a point that long has bothered constitutional authorities—resides in the office of chief executive.

The President's speech Tuesday night was a declaration of this country's undeclared war against the Axis. The United States has been waging undeclared war since passage of the lease-lend act. What Mr. Roosevelt construes as an Axis drive to dominate not only spheres of influence but the entire world henceforth will be resisted by this country with direct military measures.

President Roosevelt has exercised his power to make an ultimate declaration of war by congress a certainty, depending on the decision of the Axis bloc about when and where to precipitate belligerence.

President Roosevelt has evoked his emergency presidential powers. He has reasserted the traditional American principle of freedom of the seas, though he has not asked yet for repeal of the neutrality act which restricts exercise of the principle. He has stated that the United States will use its naval power to keep control of the seas out of Axis hands, however.

He has promised that the United States will resist wherever resistance seems necessary to keep the new world safe from foreign domination. He has outlined a policy of naval patrol to checkmate the German blockade of Great Britain. He has spurned the fading hope of peace and of further steps short of war. He has taken the United States into a position from which there can be no retreat with honor, no further forward movement of consequence without belligerence. This is the shape of American foreign policy. The United States is ready to fight.

On the domestic front, Mr. Roosevelt has closed the mouths of isolationists. He has issued a call for complete unity of purpose. He has declared that defense production must not be interrupted for any reason. He has asserted the dominance of government over both capital and labor. He has established the conditions of wartime insofar as it lies within his power to do so without a congressional declaration of war.

It is evident from this that at long last the gap between what the government was plainly preparing to do and what the government officially told the people it was doing has been closed. The myth of neutrality has been abandoned. The time for discussion has been declared at an end.

The premise on which all these things have been one is that the Axis powers contemplate domination of this hemisphere. In a world divided between those who want human slavery and human freedom, asserts the President of the United States, this country will choose the Christian ideal. It will not accept a world dominated by Hitlerism, nor will it again accept the kind of world in which the seeds of Hitlerism can grow.

The wish for a clear presidential statement of national policy has been fulfilled. For better or worse, the United States has declared an undeclared war against the Axis bloc. Before there can be any further dream of peace in our time, there must be a showdown with the warmakers.

American destiny and the destiny of all people everywhere who believe in the American ideal of freedom rest now in the vision and skill of this nation's military leadership, backed up by the productive power of all the people. That power must be translated into weapons for the defeat of the Axis powers. The die has been cast. There is no way backward out of the declaration of intention broadcast to the world in the name of the United States Tuesday night.

THEY SHALL NOT HAVE DIED IN VAIN

America comes to another Memorial day thoughtfully—more thoughtfully than usual.

Before another year has passed it is possible, barring unforeseen changes, that a new generation of warrior dead may have won their country's tribute. Once more the United States has reached an hour of fateful decision in which it may be called on to preserve its heritage with bloodshed.

If that should happen, if that must happen, Americans only can renew Abraham Lincoln's timeless pledge for all the living in the presence of all the dead who gave the last full measure of devotion—"That we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth."

After each war comes disillusionment. It happened after the Civil war, after the Spanish-American war, after the World war, and it will happen after this war. The bright ideals and shining hopes of those who marched forward become tarnished and soiled in the hands of those who were spared the greatest sacrifice. There is no way to overcome the disillusionment. There is only the spirit of Memorial day, moving the living to pay homage to the honored dead who had faith in the power of sacrifice to create a better world.

AUGURIES for advancement, promotion, favoritism from elders, superiors and those of prestige and financial as well as social standing are noted in this day's astrological chart. A particular talent in connection with public welfare or social service may merit splendid recognition and inspire tokens of esteem. Elders may figure happily in social, affectional or very substantial office, which may mean enduring and steady progress or stability. Seek this.

Those whose birthday it is may be at the threshold of a year of advancement, preferment and some substantial recognition from superiors, employers or elders, who may be found disposed to show favors, tokens of affection and confidence, which may have lasting worth and assist in giving security or other help to the welfare, happiness and fortunes. Some special talent, in art or literature may find public approbation.

A child born on this day may possess some noteworthy talents of a literary or cultural aspect, winning recognition from superiors or the public. It may be inspired by emotional urges of enduring and solid quality.

BIRTHMARKS YIELD TO TREATMENT

Medical Profession Uses Variety of Methods

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

Practically everybody has a birthmark. They are of many varieties in spite of the fact that nearly everyone speaks of birthmarks as if they were all exactly the same kind. Very few of them are bothersome. The prominent ones on the face or the disfiguring ones are almost the only ones that cause any trouble, and this trouble, of course, is mostly mental, but very real. The medical profession has developed a number of different treatments for birthmarks. Different treatments apply to different kinds of birthmarks and the proper treatment must be selected.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Port wine birthmarks are the ordinary red, flat spots on the skin. The name describes them—they look exactly as if some wine or dye had been spilled on the skin. The treatment is by carbon dioxide snow or air-cooled ultra-violet light. It may take repeated treatments to obliterate them.

The strawberry mark is red or purple, elevated above the surface of the skin. It has a berry or lobulated appearance. Treatment is by carbon dioxide snow or electric desiccation. Good results have been obtained with beta rays of radium.

The cavernous strawberry mark is a more extensive and complicated form. The use of radium in the hands of an experienced dermatologist is usually successful in treatment.

Spider marks are small, superficial blood vessels. They are easy, though tedious, to treat, either with carbon dioxide snow or electric desiccation.

Straw-colored birthmarks are caused by lymphatic vessels, and are best treated with the electric needle.

The flat, non-hairy mole is best treated with carbon dioxide snow or electric desiccation. Superficial, mild treatments over a period of time give better cosmetic results than severe, prolonged treatments.

Hairy moles, either flat or raised, should first have the hair removed by electrolysis. After that, carbon dioxide snow or electric desiccation is the treatment.

The most favorable time to treat birthmarks is soon after birth. The young cells are more easily affected than old cells. Recent marks are more responsive to carbon dioxide snow and to radium. Nearly all marks of this kind require weeks or months for proper eradication.

Parents should be informed that abnormal skin is not replaced with normal skin by any treatment of birthmarks, and all that can be hoped for is a pale, smooth scar for strawberry marks, and a pale area to replace the port wine stains.

Port wine marks are not likely to grow after birth and there is less urgency to begin their treatment early. Strawberry marks often grow at a considerable rate after birth.

N. K.:—"Can a person be restored to normal vision by eye muscle exercises?"

Answer: No, and do not waste time trying. The only thing to do is to have properly fitted glasses.

HARTFORD, Conn.—A blind man found a valuable diamond ring that had gone unnoticed by people with good sight for more than two weeks. Robert Reid, owner of a concession on the ground floor of the State Capitol, was mopping the floor near his stand with a sponge and felt the ring.

"Lover Come Back"

by BARRETT WILLOUGHBY

CHAPTER THIRTY-NINE
"Um-m. Reynall, I'd stake me Sondra never heard what ye told her in the cupola. Ye never told it up with her later, did ye?"
asked Dynamite.

"I tried to once, after I'd had a talk with the Forest Man, and got vorded about you both. I crashed your birthday party and finally got Sondra to give me five minutes. She shoved me into the dark library to wait, and the next minute someone there knocked me cold and tossed me through the window into a cross of thorny rosebushes. I concluded it was a put-up job, that you had a cuple of your huskies in there to give me a roughing. But the Forest Man has since told me I was mistaken."

"Holy... sailor. Then ye had a hand in the blowin' of me safe?"
the Forest Man cut in. "Ikeda did at Captain, looking for your arts Jean happened to step in on him while he was preparing for the job and in the dark fell in easy victim to Ikeda's jujitsu." O'More shook his head. "The blasted rascal. I suppose he got in rearin' a costume."

The Forest Man explained. "He and Starbuck wore identical costumes—the tall Killer Whale hats veined up their heights. Ikeda made he costumes with the intention of aking advantage of the party to make a thorough search of the remises. When Liane accidentally reopened the library—he was present at the time, ye remember—and he found it would be closed that night, he saw an excellent opportunity to sow the safe under cover of the wise attendant on the finale of Jane's dance. With Starbuck manging the spectacle and the lights,
I didn't seem as if anything could go wrong. He did succeed in blowing he safe—after he had thrown lean out of the window! But he had no opportunity to search. First Alexander barged in on him; then Sondra. After he had thrown her ut of his way, I complicated his es-ape by almost running into him as he ducked out into the reception
com."

"And ye let him get away?"
The Forest Man smiled patiently.
"I didn't know, then, all that I said to you. I was merely enjoying the party and keeping an eye on Starbuck. It puzzled me no end when the safe-blower managed to disappear so quickly that night, but now that you've told us about
he reopening of the old banya pas-age I see he must have dodged
behind the carved panel."

"Aye, Belike, he stayed there, nched up waitin' till everyone left
he house, so he could come back nd search the safe. Sondra told me hen she took the Bates contract im the safe that night, just before se set off for the fishin' grounds, he saw something move there by he panel under the stairs, and she ust tuckin' the envelope inside her wester at the time."

"So that explains it!" exclaimed
he Forest Man. "Ikeda must have umped to the conclusion that Sondra was secreting the copies of he charts. That's why he followed cu out to the fishing grounds, and finally pushed Sondra overboard
here."

"Are ye tellin' me that hissing lizard pushed my girl overboard that lay?"
"Undoubtedly. Sondra told me
he felt his hand on her shoulder nd thought he just missed catch-ng her, but Jean was watching
im. He believes Ikeda supplied he additional thrust necessary to apple her over the rail, thinking
ed get possession of the envelope hile rescuing her from the sea.
ean, however, spoiled that one for im by getting to her first."

The Captain made no reply, but his large, battle-scarred hand, lying n the table, slowly tightened into a white-knuckled fist.

Maves spoke as if to change the ubject. "By the way, Reynall, ere's an item that might interest
u. One of the sections in Ikeda's fficial report, seized today in that amed herring, details efforts made o secure fish and eliminate competion. Under the latter head, he entions cutting your floating cannery adrift one stormy night."

O'More and Reynall turned to look at each other but before either could speak, Sparks came in. "No contact with the Pelley yet, Captain Reynall," he reported. "But we'll keep trying."

"Right. And don't miss that Jap send at eleven tonight. Let me know at once what you get from it." He faced the others. "Gentlemen, I believe you've all been assigned staterooms, except Captain O'More.
Captain, you'll take Aunt Jack's—I mean you'll have your own old quarters aboard—the master's cabin.
Make yourselves comfortable, everyone. I'm going on deck for a look-see."

... ..
Captain O'More moved to the door of his old cabin and stepped into the dark room. His hand went out for a match to the little Dresden safe on the wall. He found one, scratched it on his heel, and lit the old-fashioned oil lamp swung in brass gimballs. Then, with a sigh of content he sank into his big, soft maroon leather chair near the table and appreciatively rubbed his hands over the arms. He'd always been proud of this chair. Other skippers' eyes had stuck out to see such an unheard-of luxury aboard a sealing ship, but none had ever so much as hinted that it inferred a soft streak in Dynamite Danny O'More.

So deep was the Captain's mood
of the past that it had not yet struck him as odd that he should find his cabin exactly as he had left it fifty years ago. The solid,
hand-carved bunk in the corner,
with its gay, four-point blanket spread; the teakwood stand beside it holding the ash receiver followed from the shell of a giant barnacle
.... On the walls the matched pair of walrus tusks, and the huge painting of the Glory under full sail.

Chuckling to himself, the Captain rested his head against the chairback and gave himself up to memories of those days when he was the young master of the Glory.

But presently, though his half-closed eyes were fixed blankly on the opposite wall, he became vaguely conscious of something lacking.
Something that should be hanging under that little model of an oomiak. He focused his gaze suddenly, and sat bolt upright. His s sextant. It should be hanging. But,
of course, he himself had taken it down and off the ship half a century ago. Let, everything else in this cabin was the same as if he had stepped back into it after an absence of an hour. He shook his head and blinked, and for the first time since his entrance, became fully alive to details of time and place.

... ..
"Be jeezaw! Is it added in the head, I'm gettin'? he inquired aloud staring at the chart spread out on top of the table. One corner was weighted by a battered cloth-bound volume. The other by an equally battered straight-stemmed briar.... Even that pipe—He picked it up. He remembered it—his pet pipe with the crack in the bowl caused by too much smoking on a windy bridge.... And the book—His hand went out to it.

"Bowditch!" he whispered. To all appearances it might be the identical "Navigators' Bible" that had served that audacious young seal poacher, whom men called Dynamite Danny O'More. He opened the book. On the flyleaf, in ink so faded he could scarcely read it in the soft glow of the oil lamp, was his own name: Daniel O'More, Master, 1887.... Over fifty years ago he had written that. Proud, high of heart, master of his own ship, and he scarce past twenty.

The room blurred before his eyes.
He must be dreaming. These things could not have remained unchanged
like this on the Glory for over half a century.

Wonderingly, he lifted the book and pressed his face against the yellowed leaves. Perfume. Paint.
Old, as if his battered Bowditch had lain long in a woman's scented trunk.... It was a strangely exciting fragrance, a commingling of scents—forests and flowers on an offshore breeze. It was familiar, too.
As familiar to him as the Pole Star
in the heavens, yet for a moment he couldn't place it. Then—a flash of memory. He was walking the deck on the Glory on a clear windy night, arm in arm with a tall girl, whose black braids, loosened, were whipping against his face. Jacquie-line! Her perfume, used by no other woman he had ever known.

Resentfully, he lifted the book to hurl it into a corner but stopped, arm half raised, eyes staring.

Miss Jacqueline, tall and slender in a robe of gray chiffon, was standing inside the door looking at him. Her thick hair dressed for the night hung in two white braids over her shoulders, lending her arrogant face a strange look of youth.
Her great dark eyes were luminous with some emotion held sternly in check.

The Captain did not notice Jean Reynall come in, close behind his bribery of a sneaking cabin boy was more—

"Jacqueline!" In an instant O'More was standing before her,
his eyes avidly searching her face.
"Dye mean 'twas that snoopin' cockroach I kicked ashore that time, who betrayed me? Was it he carried to old Ramps the ranges and depths that let him catch me nappin' in me own hide-out?"

"Why, of course! No one else ever had a glimpse of your charts,
except myself, and—" She stopped,
as if some devastating thought had struck her. For a moment her dark eyes probed the Captain's, and read the truth. "Danny!" The heartbreak and longing of over fifty wasted years sounded in her low cry. "That was why you—Oh! You thought it was I who—"

"Jacqueline, 'tis a blind, stubborn fool I've been all the years."

500-Year-Old Epitaph Predicted Present War

True prophecy of the world as it is today, with its scientific advancements and bloody struggle between nations, was made 500 years ago in an inscription on a tombstone in the Kirby churchyard, Essex, England, a newspaper clipping found by Rev. Andrew B. Starbuck, pastor of the First Friends church, discloses.

The epitaph reads:
When pictures look alive
With Movements Free—
When Ships Like Fishes
Swim Beneath the Sea
When Men Outstripping Birds
Shall Scan the Sky
Then Half the World—
Deep Drenched in Blood
Shall Lie!

DELAYS O. K. ON REAPPORTIONMENT

COLUMBUS, May 29.—Gov. John W. Bricker stood pat today on his refusal to approve a reapportionment plan for state representative and senatorial districts until errors have been corrected. The decennial reapportionment struck an unexpected snag yesterday when the Republican governor—beating the suggestion of Secretary of State John Sweeney and State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson that he sign the proposal at once.

"I will not certify this until we have checked the figures," said Bricker, adding, "I don't intend to be crowded."
Sweeney and Ferguson, both Democrats, admitted they had approved the plan on May 18 before it had been submitted to the governor, third member of the reapportionment board.

C. Emory Glander, executive secretary to the governor, discovered an error in Butler county figures which he said would have permitted an extra representative for one biennial period during the next 10 years.
It was finally agreed that the governor and Sweeney would check all figures and meet again Monday, Bricker said. He would certify the plan as of yesterday provided it was found accurate.

Flag Tourney Features Start Of Salem Golf Club Season

PRESIDENT'S CUP QUALIFYING PLAY ALSO SCHEDULED

Card Announced for June; Sunday Events Planned Through Month

The Salem Golf club officially opens its season tomorrow with the annual flag tournament and the start of qualifying rounds for the President's cup tournament. The flag tournament will be divided into two flights, the first flight with handicaps up to 15, and the second flight for those over 15. Contestants will be shooting for the Will Dunn, Ralph Campbell, Fred Pow, and C. C. Gibson memorial trophies.

Entrants in the President's cup qualifying rounds, which extend through Sunday, June 1, will shoot 18 holes of medal play with full handicaps. The lowest 32 players qualifying will begin match play under three-quarter handicap on or before June 11. The second, third, and fourth matches will be played on or before succeeding Sundays, ending July 2, while the 36 hole finals will be played on or before July 9.

Other Events Listed
The following Sunday schedule has been arranged for June:
Sunday, June 1—Twosome 18-hole medal play with golfers choosing partners and playing in foursomes. Scores will be determined by subtracting half the total handicap from half the total score.

Sunday, June 8—Eighteen holes of match play against par with full handicaps. The match will be divided into two flights, the first flight including golfers with handicaps below 15, the second above 15.
Sunday, June 15—Foursome medal handicap with golfers choosing their own partners. Total scores less total handicaps gives net score in this event.

Sunday, June 22—Twosomes will shoot in 18-hole handicap play with partners of their own selection. Best shot will count, game being played in foursomes. One-half combined handicap is allowed.

Sunday, June 29—There will be a novelty tournament in the morning while in the afternoon there will be a nine-hole match played by mixed foursomes. Both partners will drive off the tee, select the best drive, and proceed to alternate strokes. Partners will be selected and there will be no handicap.

Two Stark Golf Stars Play In National Open

Stark county captured two of the district's five qualifying berths for the National Open at Fort Worth, Tex., June 5 to 7, when Lloyd Gullickson of Congress Lake shot into fourth place with a 148 and George Howard, Brookside veteran, finished with a 151 in the northern Ohio Open qualifier just completed at Congress Lake Country club, Canton.

Al Espinosa of Akron Portage, Herman Keiser of Akron Firestone and Ted Hoge of Cleveland University were the others. Howard contributed one of the outstanding feature shots of the qualifying tourney.

He hit his second shot into the lagoon at the left of the seventh fairway at Congress Lake. Rather than accept a two-stroke penalty, he pulled off his shoes and socks and waded in. He blasted the ball out of five inches of water 75 yards to the green and canned a 12-foot putt for a par.

FELLER NOMINATED TO CHECK LOSSES

Tribe Swatters Produce, But Hurlers Prove Weak Spot

DETROIT, May 29.—The Cleveland Indians, beaten three consecutive games by the Detroit Tigers because of poor pitching, nominated Bob Feller to snap the losing streak today. Bob has nine victories.

The recent defeats are a black eye for the experts, who stressed in pre-season predictions that the club was a cinch to win if the hitters came through. The Redskins now have four batters above .300, paced by Jeff Heath's .358, and Ken Keltner is within striking distance of the mark with .291.

Cleveland's 14 runs in the three games should have been enough for a couple decisions, but the booming Bengal bats routed Al Smith, Al Milnar and Mel Harder on successive days to wipe out leads.

Yesterday the champion Tigers teed off on the offerings of Harder, Harry Eisenstat and Joe Heving for 11 hits, including a double and Bruce Campbell's third home run of the series, to win 8 to 5.

Detroit plated two runs in the seventh off Eisenstat to break a tie and Harry was charged with the setback. Ray Mack had put the Indians back in the game in the first half of the seventh with a home run with two men on base. The blow finished starter Dizzy Trout, but the league-leaders were unable to solve the slants of Al Benton.

The Indians picked up nine hits, scoring their first two runs in the opening inning on Gerry Walker's double, two walks and two errors. Jim Bagby and Smith are expected to pitch tomorrow's double-header in Chicago. The Indians return home Saturday to open a three-game series with New York.

LISBON TEAM PLAYS GOLDEN AGE SQUAD

The Lisbon A. C. baseball team will play a double header tomorrow against the Akron Golden Age team.

The Lisbon team will play one game at 10:30 a. m. and the other at 3 p. m. against the undefeated Akron squad. Lisbon pitchers will be Vahila and Lefty Scott with Bucher catching.

Cavaliers Defeated By Italian Athletic Club

The Italian A. C. yesterday defeated the Cavalier Club, 6 to 5, in a seven inning fray at Centennial park. The victors took advantage of 11 Cavalier errors, home runs by Julian, Noeera, and Kozar, and a triple by Plegge to chalk up their win.

Rubbing It In

FULTON, Mo. — An automobile accident was double poison to Marshall Machin.

The Mexico, Mo. man's back was wrenched in the plunge of a car into a ditch. That was bad enough, but—

Rescuers, evidently unfamiliar with Missouri vegetation, laid him gently on a patch of poison ivy.

MULLINS WIN AS SAXONS, SANITARY FIGHT TO 3-3 TIE

Trades Class Humbled 9-2; Saxons Capitalize On Errors to Score

Mullins put two doubles, two singles, two walks, and two errors together for 7 runs in the first inning of a game with the Trades Class last night, going on to win 9-2. In the third inning they scored two more runs, this time on five hits. Guapone, Mullins hurler, limited the Traders to four hits, all singles.

The Saxons and the Sanitary played to an eight inning twilight tie, 3-3. Al Linder's homer in the second put the Saxons ahead 1-0, and they scored another in the third on a single, an infield out and an error. The Sanitary came back in the fourth to score on a single, a walk and an error. In the fifth inning the Saxons chalked up their final run on two singles and an error.

The Sanitary tied the game up in the seventh inning with singles by Pukalski, Borton, and Ed Jeffries.

PLACENTIA PLAYS CLEVELAND CLUB

Lake Placentia will be host tomorrow to the colored Cleveland White Sox, in a game to be played at 1:30.

The White Sox, with two new pitchers and a new infielder, will present a stronger line-up than the one which divided four games with Placentia last year. In three games for each team this year, neither has suffered defeat.

Baseball Is Too Tough For OSU Muscle Man

"Spike" Mooney, Ohio State's "muscle man" wrestling coach has discovered that different kinds of training are necessary for different sports. On the mat he takes on—and defeats—the best youngsters in his varsity wrestling team, but at baseball it's a different yarn.

The other day "Spike" was caught in a run-down between third and home while playing against Erie Godfrey's squad, and the wrestling coach came up with two pulled muscles—one in each leg.

COURTHOUSE TEAMS BATTLE ON DIAMOND

LISBON, May 29. — A challenge was answered, the foe was met and defeated when the men in the courthouse settled the question of prowess on the baseball diamond here last evening, with the first floor team defeating the challenging second floor softball team, 18 to 9, in a six inning match.

Although Judge Joel Sharp, playing short and pitching for the challengers, may appeal the decision which they said resulted from lucky breaks, the winners made good their boast in accepting the challenge, and (discounting errors) bunched their hits to decisively trounce the opposition.

Home runs by Les Sexton of the commissioners' office and Web Schoengreg of the WPA; a two-bagger by Mac McCullough, clerk in the soldier's relief department who fell down at the plate after hitting the ball; and a double play, Springer to McCullough, were highlights of the game.

Breezy Briefs Of Sport From Brietz To You

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK, May 29.—(The Special News Service)—Rumor foundry: The Brown front office is spilling stories Rick Ferrell will replace Fred Haney, and we suspect reports that some of the Reds aren't speaking to each other are just part of the gossip that always goes along with a slump. The Washington boxing commission says it paid Arthur Donovan $150 to referee Louis-Baer. Ray C. Alvis, one of the promoters, says Donovan got a grand.

Crashing The "400"
Ted Williams of the Red Sox pounded that apple for a neat 400 in his first 30 games, which led Mel Webb to sing as follows in the Boston Evening Globe:
This is the tale of Teddy the great,
Who hits 'em early and hits 'em late,
Who's blazed away with his trusty bat
To the tune of a cool 400 flat.

Tramp, Tramp, Tramp
Hank Greenberg's output is marching 15 miles a day from Fort Custer, Mich., to Camp Forrest, Tenn. — good crowds turn out at every stop. At one, signs were being carried around reading, "here comes the army—and Greenberg" . . . Ben Chapman says the reason Washington aired him was his $12,000 salary. Clark Griffith merely says, "we are still on the market for a hard-hitting outfielder." . . . P. S. Chapman closed at 255.

Today's Guest Star
C. E. McBride, Kansas City Star: "Baseball brings strange switches . . . Dick Bartell, now on the Giants, finds himself teamed with Gabby Harnett and Bill Jurgens . . . Bartell and Gabby didn't get along when Dick was with the Cubs . . . and in the old days when Bartell was a Giant and Jurgens a Cub, they used to tangle every time they came together in a play at second base."

The Morning Line
Fort Worth bookies quote—Craig Wood, Gene Sarazen, Jimmy Demaret and Ralph Guldahl at 15-1 in the national open. Ben Hogan is 10-1. . . Zeke Bonura, bowling along at a sweet 400 clip for Minneapolis, predicts he'll be first basing in the majors before the season is over and there are plenty who will second the motion. . . the deal the Braves and Reds were trying to make didn't involve Max West, but called for Ernie Lombardi and Whitey Moore to change uniforms with Ray Berres and Lloyd Waner. Then Ernie began hitting and the thing fell through.

One-Minute Interview
Joe Cronin: "If Joe and Domie DiMaggio played in the same outfield there wouldn't be enough room for a third outfielder."

Crack-of-The-Week

33 CARS SET FOR MEMORIAL GRIND AT INDIANAPOLIS

Only American Cars In Race; Mauri Rose Gets Post with 128 MPH

INDIANAPOLIS, May 29. — An all-American field of 33 cars will face the starter tomorrow for the 29th running of the Indianapolis motor speedway's 500 mile race.

Rene LeBeque and Jean Trevaux, who went to a lot of trouble to bring their Talbot Specials from unoccupied France, failed to get into the starting lineup.

The field was filled with qualifications for three places in the eleventh row. "Deacon" Litz, Dubois, Pa., took the inside spot with a speed of 125.440 miles an hour. The other two positions went to Duke Nalon, Chicago, 122.237, and Al Putnam, Indianapolis, 121.951.

This year, as in 1940, two more than the limit of 33 starters passed the qualifications test. Louis Durant, Hollywood, Calif., whose qualifying time of 116.152 was the next to the slowest, will start only if one of the other cars isn't at the line. A car must do 115 miles an hour or better for 10 miles to qualify.

A head-on view of tomorrow's start will look much like that of the 1940 race. The same three cars will be in the front row, with their positions shifted somewhat.

Mauri Rose, Indianapolis, beat out Rex Mays of Glendale, Calif., for No. 1 spot on the rail which Mays had last year. Wilbur Shaw, Indianapolis, winner last year and in two other years, was pushed from second to third place, where Rose started in 1940.

The first row starting order was just the reverse of the way the three finished last year — Shaw, Mays, Rose. Rose got the pole position with a qualifying speed of 128.691 miles an hour. Mays' time was 128.301 and Shaw's 127.836.

American Bowling Congress Rents Coliseum For '42 Meet

BY FRITZ HOWELL
COLUMBUS, O., May 29.—Signatures were linked today on the contract turning over the State Fairgrounds Coliseum to the American Bowling Congress for the 1942 national pin tourney.
Dr. Joel Bernard, A. B. C. executive committeeman for this region, said the contract called for the bowlers to take over the big coliseum from Feb. 9 to May 27. Thus state high school bowlers will have to move out next spring. From Feb. 9 to March 1 the new alleys will be installed. Bowling probably will start March 3 and continue to May 22, taking care of the estimated 7,400 five-man teams and the host of singles and doubles. The remaining five days will see the alleys taken up and the coliseum returned to its normal state.

3600 Reservations In Latest figures from Milwaukee, home office of the A. B. C., were that 3600 five-man reservations were in the files, with the opening of the pin classic still more than nine months away. If the field gets too big, there's a chance the "booster team" entry from Columbus will be limited.

Looks like everything's all set for the 1942 A. B. C.—unless that coliseum roof starts leaking again and upsets the program as it did the state basketball tourney a couple of years ago.

Basketeers to Cedar Point
The state high school board of athletic control, now that the coliseum has been yanked from under it as the site of the scholastic cage

TELL HOW NAZI SHIP WAS SUNK

British Pick Up Officers, Men of Germany's Bismarck

(By Associated Press)
LONDON, May 29.—The British destroyer Mashona was sunk by German planes when they got in the last blow of the sea battle which cost Germany the 35,000-ton battleship Bismarck, the admiralty announced today.

"It is now possible to give some details of the final phase of the destruction of the German battleship Bismarck," said the admiralty announcement.

"Torpedo attacks by naval aircraft and the destroyer attack during the night of the 26th and 27th, in which H. M. S. Sikh (Commander G. H. Stokes, R. N. took part, in addition to ships already announced, resulted in the speed of the Bismarck being greatly reduced and her steering gear being put out of action.

"Both her main and secondary armament, however, remained effective.

"Uncertain and variable visibility made it necessary to await full daylight.

"Shortly after 9 a. m. H. M. S. King George V and H. M. S. Rodney engaged the enemy with their main armament.

"The gunfire of these two battleships silenced the enemy. The commander in chief then ordered H. M. S. Dorsetshire to sink the Bismarck with torpedoes.

"As already announced, the Bismarck was sunk at 11:01 a. m. on May 27.

"More than 100 officers and men were picked up by our forces and are prisoners of war.

"British warships and long range Catalina (American-made) and Sunderland flying boats still searched today for the Prinz Eugen, the Bismarck's cruiser escort which left her before the sinking.

MAN AND STEPSON VICTIMS OF RIVER

CLEVELAND, May 29.—A father's devotion to his stepson cost him his life here in one of the season's first double drownings.

Despite his inability to swim, Leonard King, 31-year-old iceman, plunged into Rocky river in an attempt to rescue James E. Marik, 6, who slipped from the bank. Both were quickly swept under from the force of a whirlpool.

Their bodies were recovered an hour and a half later 68 feet from the spot.

"Lest We Forget"

There's been a lot said about Memorial Day. Maybe it's all been said, all there is to say, and there's nothing more. Nothing more.

Ah, but there is something more. Not in words, perhaps, not even in deeds; but something vital that we feel and know in our hearts; something that our fathers and sons and husbands and brothers died for, so that we might have something to live for.

Indeed, their very memory is something we cherish. May God Almighty grant that to their ranks no more may be added, but that we may enjoy in solemn gratitude the blessings for which they fought.
